Limited Appropriations for Improving the Grounds.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL

The Work to be Confined to Ordinary Repairs-Dangerous Condition of the Old Hall of Representatives-Brumidi's Belt of Historical Paintings-How the Work is to be Completed, Etc.

The Capitol and Capitol Grounds

The Capitol and Capitol Grounds.

As aircady stated in The National RePUBLICAN, the appropriations made for work about the Capitol building and grounds provide a sum barely sufficient for doing ordinary repair work and for keeping the regular force of men, laborers and others (in employment, without undertaking to extend the improvements. One hundred and fifty thousand doilars was asked by the architect to continue the improvements, and only $60,000 was appropriated. Among the most important matters which the architect urgod upon the attention of the committee on public the attention of the committee on public buildings and grounds was the condition of the old hall of representatives, as the walls are not fireproof and the chambers and corri-dors and even the space over the ceilings are crammed full of old documents and other in-flammable material. This condition of affairs constantly threatens the destruction of this portion of the capitol at least, for if a fire should occur there, in the opinion of the chief engineer of the District fire department is would be almost impossible to check it until it had swept all around the old hall. In a letter to the senate committee on public buildings and grounds on the 6th of May last, Architect Clark proposed to render this part of the building safe from fire by changing the roof, taking away the donient roof, which is constructed on wooden ribs and sheathing and replacing it with adouble pitched roof to be constructed of iron and copper, with skylights. The estimated cost of this work was $26,500. He also proposed to take out the was $25,000. He also proposed to take out the gallery and wooden partition, building a semi-circular wall of brick and extending the marble flooring. This work was estimated to cost $10,000. The architect also stated that if this change was made it would be necessary o make some provision for the accommoda tion of the So,000 books now stored mostly in the inflammable portion of this hall, and for the accommodation of the stationer's and document rooms, and he suggested that authority be conferred on the speaker of the house to set apart rooms in the basement and house to set apart rooms in the basement and cellar story of the house wing for the reception of the books, decuments and stationery.

Signor Filippe Coatiggini, the artist who will attempt to finish the belt of historical paintings in the dome left uncompleted by Brumidi, will begin his task after the 1st of July, when the appropriations become available. Signor Costiggini will be paid at the same rate per diem for his work as Brumidi. Those who are immiliar with the works executed by this artist believe him entirely competent to succeed Brumidi. The cartoous petent to succeed Brumidi. The cartoous or sketches which Brumidi made for the completion of the belt are in pos-session of Architect Clark. These car-toons are considered as government property, as Mr. Brumudi was paid by the government for making the manifest of the cartoons.

loons are considered as government property, as Mr. Brumudi was paid by the government for making them. Signor Costiggial in completing the work will follow the designs made by his predecessor. The belt when completed will consist of a series of paintings representing the most important epochs in American history. The first four already completed are a series belonging to the Spanish colonial bistory, beginning with the "Landing of Columbus"; next comes "Cortez and Montezuma in the Temple of the Sun." Then "Pizario Going to Pern," and last "The Burial of De Soto." These are followed by a series representing the English colonial history, beginning with "Captain Smith and Pocahoutas," followed by "The Landing of the Pilgrims," "William Penn and the Indiams" and "The Colonization of New English." These are to be followed by "Oglethorpe and the Indiams," the revolutionary period represented by "The Battle of Lexington," "The Duclaration of Independence," and "The Surrender of Cornwallis." The belt will be completed then with paintings representing "The Death of Tecumseh," which it is supposed is intended as an illustration of the Indian policy, "The American Army in Mexico" and "The Discovery of Gold in California." the Indian policy, "The American Army in Mexico" and "The Discovery of Gold in

The interior of the store presented a very dilapidated appearance, the explosion wrecking everything of a brittle or perishable nature.
